AIB-AXYS Weekly Fixed Income Note

23rd February 2026

Key Highlights

- Spot market treasury bills were oversubscribed, recording a subscription rate of 295.60% from 308.8% recorded the previous week. The market remained awash with liquidity, evidenced by heavy subscription. Absolute demand remained skewed towards the 364-day paper, receiving bids worth KES 46.54 Bn. The 182-day paper received bids worth KES 11.36 Bn, while subscription for the 91-day paper remained robust, with bids totaling KES 13.05 Bn. The apex bank accepted bids worth KES 49.07 Bn. We are of the view that investors are in a race to lock in yields in the current environment, anticipating that yields may continue to trend downwards following the recent interest rate cut.
- The 91-day Treasury Bill rate witnessed a 1.95 bps w/w downtick to 7.59%. Meanwhile, the accepted average yields on the 182-day paper declined by 2.01 bps, whilst the 364-day paper eased to 8.90%. Looking ahead, we expect yields continue to moderate downwards.
- Kenya announced a USD 500.00 Mn Eurobond buyback for two papers: 8.0% maturing in 2032 and 7.25% due in 2028, through new issuances: a 7-year note at 7.875%, which is amortized in three equal instalments in 2032, 2033, and 2034, and a 12-year note at 8.7% with three equal instalments in 2037, 2038, and 2039. The new issuances raised USD 900.00 Mn and USD 1.25 Bn, respectively, bringing the total amount raised to USD 2.25 Bn. Authorities will deploy the excess USD 1.75 Bn in supporting general budgetary needs. The recent upgrade of Kenya's sovereign rating by Moody's to B3 from Caa1 has played in the government's favor as it seeks to raise funds from international markets, as upgrades improve investor confidence.
- Across the secondary bond market, the value of bonds traded increased 52.0% w/w to KES 113.44 Bn from KES 74.63 Bn recorded a week prior. The NSE Bond Index witnessed an increase of 185.31 bps w/w to 1195.49 points, driven largely by a decrease in the 7-year benchmark yields. The 13-year yield rose the most by 5.03 bps w/w while the 7-year yield eased the most by 75.71 bps w/w.
- Yields on Kenya's Eurobond papers increased by an average of 8.44 bps w/w. The table below shows the performance of the Eurobond papers.

Macroeconomic Developments

Exchange Rate

- The Kenya Shilling remained relatively unchanged against the USD, closing the week at KES 129.02, similar to the previous week's level of KES 129.02, pointing to a stable exchange rate environment. The Shilling's YTD appreciation against the USD stood at 0.2%.
- Official forex reserves increased by 1.4% w/w to USD 12,659 Mn from USD 12,485 Mn. The current reserves now offer about 5.5 months of import cover, meeting the CBK's statutory requirement of 4 months. The reserves also met the EAC's convergence requirement of 4.5 months of import cover.

Liquidity

The Kenya Shilling Overnight Interbank Average (KESONIA) closed the week at 8.78%. Going forward, we expect KESONIA to move largely in line with the CBR rate, following further narrowing of the interest corridor to 50 bps from 75 bps.

February Inflation

- February inflation data is due this week, we estimate inflation to fall within the ranges to 4.2%-4.4%, supported by stable energy prices as well as a stable currency.

Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) policy decision

- The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) lowered the Central Bank Rate (CBR) by 25bps to 8.75% from 9.00% during its February 2026 meeting, in line with our projections. The committee noted easing inflationary pressures. Further, inflation is expected to remain below the midpoint of the target range in the near term, supported by stable prices of processed food items and energy, and stability in the exchange rate. The committee saw further scope to ease in a bid to support economic activity and stimulate lending to the private sector while keeping inflation under control. Other key takeaways from last week's meeting.

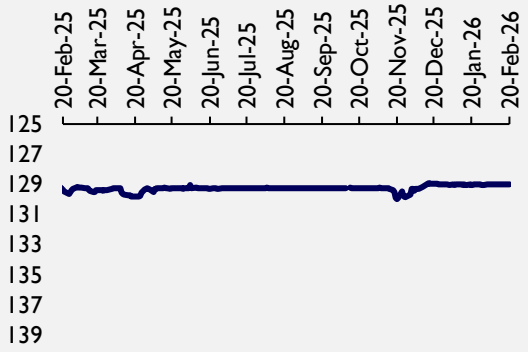

i. Gross NPLs to loans stood at 15.5% in January 2026, an improvement from 16.7% in October.

ii. Growth in private sector lending improved to 6.4% in January from 5.9% in December.

iii. The interest rate corridor was narrowed further to 50 bps from 75 bps.

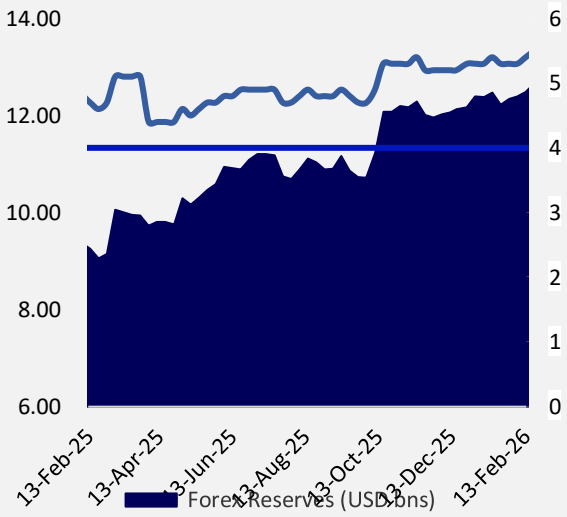

iv. The applicable interest rate on the Discount Window was adjusted to 50 bps from 75 bps.

AIB-AXYS Weekly Global Markets Note

23rd February 2026

• Global Markets Commentary

- After months of waiting, on Friday, the US Supreme Court declared President Trump's sweeping tariffs unlawful. President Trump had imposed the tariffs last year under the Emergency Powers Act. Following this ruling, questions remain on whether there will be refunds. At the same time, Trump announced that the US will raise base tariffs to 15.0% amid the Supreme Court ruling. The markets reacted positively to these developments as key US indices recorded the largest single-day gains during the week, with the S&P 500 and Dow Jones climbing 0.7% and 0.5%, guaranteeing weekly gains.
- On data releases, the US core PCE for December came in at 3.0%, exceeding consensus estimates of 2.9% and November's 2.8%. (The core PCE price index is the less volatile measure of the PCE price index, excluding the more volatile and seasonal food and energy prices.) This might complicate the Fed's rate path after the latest US inflation data came in at 2.4%, softer than expected, alongside encouraging job data that surpassed estimates. Coming into 2026, the market had priced in at least two rate cuts, with the first likely in June or July. (Minutes from the last Fed meeting suggest that members remain divided on the direction of monetary policy amid elevated inflation.)
- Across the Atlantic, the latest data indicated that the UK unemployment rate stood at 5.2% in the three months to the end of December, suggesting the labour market is cooling faster than expected. The latest data has raised prospects for a rate cut by the Bank of England, with the BoE expected to cut the rate in the upcoming meeting.

- Bullish sentiments dominated US and European markets, while bearish tones weighed on Asia. The US had a shorter trading week, with markets closed on Monday, the 16th, in observance of Presidents Day. Even so, most major US indices ended the week in the green after earlier pullbacks driven by tech sell-offs. Notably, Friday's rebound proved decisive. Following the US Supreme Court's ruling that rendered President Trump's tariffs unlawful, the Dow booked 0.5% gains on the day, averting what would have been a consecutive weekly loss.
- In Europe, the FTSE 100 extended its winning streak, rising 2.3% for the week. The rally was supported by improving sentiment after data showed retail sales recorded the fastest growth in more than 20 months, alongside the positive spillover from the US Supreme Court ruling. The index gained 0.6% on Friday alone. Germany's market followed a similar script, with the DAX posting 1.4% w/w gains.
- Across Asia, Japan's Nikkei retreated slightly, shedding 0.2% as investors locked in profits following the prior week's 5.0% surge, which had been driven by Prime Minister Takaichi's landslide snap election win. Hong Kong's Hang Seng also slipped, declining 0.6% w/w

• Fixed Income:

- US 10-year bond yields climbed by 3.9 bps to 4.09% as markets digested the Supreme Court ruling on President Trump's sweeping tariffs, alongside sticky core PCE data, which came in higher than expected at 3.0%. The persistence of inflationary pressures likely pushed investors to demand a premium, particularly on the longer end of the curve. Notably, US Q4 GDP slowed more than expected, printing at 1.4%, largely dragged by the government shutdown, which weighed on investment activity. At the same time, minutes following the ruling indicated that Fed members remain divided on the monetary policy path.
- In the UK, the 10-year bond yield eased by 6.4 bps to 4.36%. The decline was partly driven by a more dovish tone from the Bank of England amid cooling inflation and a softening labour market, which has raised the odds of a rate cut. Encouraging retail sales data also helped support investor sentiment. Meanwhile, Germany's 10-year Bund eased by 1.9 bps to 2.74% as demand for safe-haven assets picked up.
- Japan's 10-year bond yield declined by 10.4 bps to 2.11% on Friday, supported by cooling inflation. January headline inflation dropped to 1.5%, while core inflation came in line with the Bank of Japan's 2.0% target.
