AIB-AXYS Weekly Fixed Income Note

8th December 2025

Key Highlights

- Spot market treasury bills were oversubscribed, recording a subscription rate of 220.2% from 186.7% recorded the previous week. Absolute demand remained skewed towards the 364-day paper – which received bids amounting to KES 30.37 Bn against KES 10.00Bn offered, sustaining its position as the preferred tenor for investors seeking higher returns. The 91-day paper also attracted solid interest, with KES 8.49Bn in bids against KES 4.00Bn offered. Notably, the 182-day paper recorded a marked improvement, receiving KES 14.00Bn against the KES 10.00Bn offer; a reversal from previous weeks when the tenor persistently lagged. This renewed interest suggests investors are gradually warming back to the mid-tenor as they balance liquidity needs with yield opportunities.
- In the results from the reopened SDBI/2011/030 and FXD1/2021/025, the government registered a performance rate of 132.83% with total bids received amounting to KES 53.13 Bn against a target of KES 40.00 Bn. The total amount of accepted bids was KES 47.11 Bn. The weighted average rate of accepted bids for SDBI/2011/030 and FXD1/2021/025 was 13.3247% and 13.6199% respectively, while the coupon rates for the bonds were 12.0000% and 13.9240% respectively.
- The 91-day Treasury Bill rate witnessed a 0.09bps w/w uptick to 7.78%. Meanwhile, the accepted average yields on the 182-day paper climbed by 0.43 bps to 7.80%, whilst the 364-day paper declined by 0.78 bps. Looking ahead, we expect yields to continue trending downwards in the near term, however, now at a slower pace.
- Across the secondary bond market, the value of bonds traded decreased 1.8% w/w to KES 60.53 Bn from KES 61.61 Bn recorded a week prior. The NSE Bond Index witnessed an increase of 94.87 bps w/w to 1175.76 points, driven largely by a decrease in the 4-year benchmark yields. The 16-year yield rose the most by 39.00 bps w/w while the 4-year yield eased the most by 65.26 bps w/w.
- Yields on Kenya's Eurobond papers decreased by an average of 25.76 bps w/w. The table below shows the performance of the Eurobond papers.

Macroeconomic Developments

Exchange Rate

- The Kenya Shilling appreciated slightly against the USD, closing the week at KES 129.31 from KES129.82 the previous week, reflecting a marginal w/w appreciation of 0.4%. The Shilling's YTD depreciation against the USD stood at 0.01%.
- Official forex reserves increased by 0.7% w/w to USD 12,030 Mn from USD 11,951 Mn. The current reserves now offer about 5.2 months of import cover, meeting the CBK's statutory requirement of 4 months. The reserves also met the EAC's convergence requirement of 4.5 months of import cover.

December Monetary Policy Decision

- The Monetary Policy Committee is set to meet on 9th December to provide guidance on Central Bank Rate (CBR). With inflation remaining anchored and expected to stay within the CBK target range in the near term and given the need to further stimulate the economy and support private sector credit growth, we expect the committee to deliver an additional 25 bps cut, bringing the CBR to 9.00%.

Stanbic Bank Kenya Purchasing Managers Index- November 2025

- According to Stanbic Bank Kenya's Purchasing Managers' Index, business conditions strengthened significantly in November, with the headline PMI rising to 55.0 from 52.5 in October, marking the strongest expansion in over five years. Readings above 50.0 indicate an improvement in business conditions, while readings below 50.0 signal deterioration.
- Business activity and new orders surged, with both expanding at the fastest pace since 2020. Firms attributed the sharp rise in sales to improved customer purchasing power, softer inflationary pressures, and successful marketing campaigns and new product launches.
- Growth was broad-based across all monitored sectors, supporting a rebound in purchasing activity. Firms increased their input buying substantially and strengthened inventory levels in anticipation of sustained demand.
- Employment rose for the tenth consecutive month, with November recording the second-fastest job creation since August 2023. Firms scaled up staffing to handle higher workloads and growing client demand. Input cost inflation eased to an 18-month low, with purchase prices, staff costs, and output charges rising only marginally. Businesses noted that softer inflation helped support customer demand, although higher taxes and material costs continued to pressure margins.
- Supplier delivery times shortened again, driven by stronger vendor competition and improved supply chain efficiency. Faster deliveries, combined with increased purchasing, supported a robust build-up in input inventories. Business confidence remained positive, although softer than earlier in the year. Firms expecting higher output over the next 12 months cited planned marketing initiatives, business expansions, and product diversification as key drivers of growth.

Liquidity

- Liquidity conditions across the money market tightened as evidenced by the 0.3 bps uptick in average interbank rate to remain relatively unchanged at 9.2%.

AIB-AXYS Weekly Global Markets Note

8th December 2025

• Global Markets Commentary

- Last week the market broadly closed slightly higher as growing conviction for a rate cut by the Fed in this week's meeting kept indices supported. The US jobless claims report showed a significant drop to a three year low. Nevertheless, the labor market is now viewed as softening, which remains a key consideration for the Fed when determining monetary policy. This, combined with higher but slower than expected inflation, is expected to compel the Fed to cut rates in the 10th December meeting.
- There are several key events lined up before the year closes which hold potential to drive market direction. These include the Bank of Japan's rate decision, with odds now higher that the BoJ will begin hiking rates to tame inflation as the market continues to pick up signals from Governor Ueda. Other important upcoming events are the US Fed rate decision, the Supreme Court ruling on President Trump's tariffs, and the release of November job data which has remained delayed due to disruptions caused by the government shutdown. Additionally, the Supreme Court is set to make a decision on President Trump's firing of Governor Lisa Cook.
- In other developments, the Euro Area unemployment rate came in slightly higher than expected at 6.4%, which was 10 bps above the expected 6.3%. However, the number of unemployed fell by 13,000

- Select global indices under our coverage closed with a median return of 0.5%, slightly lower than the 3.2% recorded the previous week when the market was recovering losses driven by heavy AI related sell offs. Last week, hope for a potential rate cut on Wednesday fueled the rally through to the week, and soft September spending further supported expectations for a cut.
- A key market development last week was the announcement that Netflix, a market leader in the film industry, agreed to acquire Warner Bros Discovery in a USD 72.0 Bn deal. Shareholders of Warner Bros will receive USD 27.75 per share in cash and Netflix stock. For the week, Warner Bros rose 8.7% to close at USD 26.08.
- In the US, the S&P 500 and Dow Jones gained 0.4% and 0.5% respectively on a weekly basis, with expectations for a rate cut buoying performance. Across the Atlantic, the FTSE 100 bucked the trend and slipped 0.6%, mainly due to lagging performance in the financial and energy sectors. Germany's DAX closed the week 0.8% higher, largely supported by expectations of a rate cut in the US.
- Bullish sentiments were also observed in Asia, where the Hang Seng and Nikkei 225 climbed 0.9% and 0.5% respectively. In Japan, investors are gradually warming up to the possibility of a rate hike in the upcoming meeting as inflation levels remain above the desired level.

• Fixed Income:

| Bond | Current | Previous | w/w change |
|---|---|---|---|
| US 10 Yr Bond | 4.14% | 4.02% | ▲ 12.1bps |
| UK 10 Yr Gilt | 4.48% | 4.45% | ▲ 3.1bps |
| German 10 Yr Bund | 2.80% | 2.69% | ▲ 11.1bps |
| Japan 10 Year Bond | 1.95% | 1.81% | ▲ 14.2bps |

Source: Investing.com, Bloomberg, AIB AXYS Research

- Yields ticked up across major markets. The US 10 Year Bond rose 12.1 bps to settle at 4.14% after declining for two consecutive weeks. Better than expected consumer confidence, which increased for the first time in five months, and the delayed September Personal Consumer Expenditure reading of 2.8% did little to cool yields. With the current trend in inflation, the market has fully priced in a 25 bps cut on Wednesday. Looking ahead, the market will also be paying close attention to the next Fed Chair to be appointed by President Trump, who is widely expected to choose a dove to support his policy agenda.
- In Europe, yields inched up by 3.1 bps to 4.48% as investors continue to assess Chancellor Rachel Reeve's budget. Despite elevated inflationary pressures and hawkish sentiments from some Bank of England members, the market is warming up to a rate cut in the upcoming meeting, potentially a 25 bps cut. Beyond the UK, Germany's 10 Year Bund closed the week at 2.80%, with yields climbing 11.1 bps. Eurozone inflation remains slightly above the 2.0% target, supporting the European Central Bank's stance to keep rates steady. Recent remarks by President Lagarde further cement the market's view that a rate cut is very unlikely.
- In Japan, yields on the 10 Year Bond climbed 14.2 bps to 1.95%, marking the highest level since 2007. This underscores the growing expectation of rate hikes as the market assesses key figures who will influence the Bank of Japan's meeting later this month, particularly Governor Kazuo Ueda, who recently issued hawkish remarks.

• Currencies:

| Currency | Current | Previous | w/w change |

| AUD/USD | 0.6640 | 0.6550 | ▲ 137bps |
| USD/JPY | 155.350 | 156.180 | ▼ (53bps) |

| US Dollar Index | 98.986 | 99.479 | ▼ (50bps) |

Source: Investing.com AIB AXYS Research

- For a second consecutive week, the US dollar index closed lower at 98.986. The US dollar weakened against all four major currencies that we track. The market is paying attention to the different policy paths across various regions. Growing expectations for rate hikes in Japan supported the Yen, with the USD/JPY pair falling to 155.350.
