AIB-AXYS Weekly Fixed Income Note

2nd February 2026

Key Highlights

- Spot market treasury bills were oversubscribed, recording a subscription rate of 196.7% from 76.5% recorded the previous week. Demand was heavily skewed towards the 364-day paper, which attracted KES 38.58Bn in bids against KES 10.00Bn offered, pointing to a strong investor preference for longer-tenor instruments. The 91-day paper recorded moderate demand, receiving KES 6.35Bn in bids versus KES 4.00Bn offered, while the 182-day paper saw relatively weak uptake, with bids of KES 2.28Bn against KES 10.00Bn offered, indicating subdued appetite for the mid-tenor segment.
- The government is looking to raise KES 50.00Bn through the re-opening of the FXD3/2019/015 and FXD1/2018/025 bonds, which are earmarked for budgetary support in FY25/26. The bonds have quoted tenors to maturity of 8.4 yrs and 17.3 yrs, while the coupon rates are set at 12.3400% and 13.4000% respectively. Bidding is set to close on 11th February 2026. We will be issuing further bidding guidance.
- The 91-day Treasury Bill rate witnessed a 9.48 bps w/w downtick to 7.63%. Meanwhile, the accepted average yields on the 182-day paper inclined by 0.66 bps, whilst the 364-day paper inclined by 0.64 bps. Looking ahead, we expect yields to continue trending downwards in the near term; however, now at a slower pace.
- Across the secondary bond market, the value of bonds traded decreased 15.0% w/w to KES 71.09 Bn from KES 83.57 Bn recorded a week prior. The NSE Bond Index witnessed an increase of 80.88 bps w/w to 1174.14 points, driven largely by a decrease in the 17-year benchmark yields. The 5-year yield rose the most by 27.70 bps w/w while the 17-year yield eased the most by 64.15 bps w/w.
- Yields on Kenya's Eurobond papers decreased by an average of 9.59 bps w/w. The table below shows the performance of the Eurobond papers.

Macroeconomic Developments

Exchange Rate

- The Kenya Shilling depreciated against the USD, closing the week at KES 129.03 from KES 129.02 the previous week, a marginal w/w depreciation of 0.01%. The Shilling's YTD appreciation against the USD stood at 0.2%.
- Official forex reserves increased by 0.9% w/w to USD 12,334 Mn from USD 12,219 Mn. The current reserves now offer about 5.3 months of import cover, meeting the CBK's statutory requirement of 4 months. The reserves also met the EAC's convergence requirement of 4.5 months of import cover.

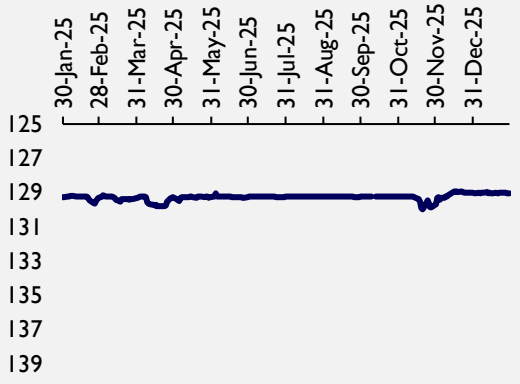

Kenya Consumer Price Index Report – January 2026

- January's inflation eased slightly to 4.4%, in line with our in-house projection of 4.4%–4.6% and marginally lower than 4.5% recorded in December 2025. This implies that consumer prices were 4.4% higher in January 2026 compared to January 2025, signaling a continued price stability within the CBK's 2.5%–7.5% target. The moderation was partly attributable to base effects, reflecting relatively higher price levels in the corresponding period last year.
- The price increase was primarily driven by higher costs in Food and Non-Alcoholic Beverages (7.3%), Transport (4.8%), and Housing, Water, Electricity, Gas & Other Fuels (2.2%). Together, these divisions account for over 57% of the CPI basket and therefore remain the key drivers of overall inflation trends. On a month-on-month basis, the CPI rose by 0.6%, from 148.02 in December to 148.96 in January, with core inflation increasing to 2.2% while non-core inflation moderated to 10.3%.
- Food prices recorded mixed movements during the month. Prices of maize grain (loose) increased from KES 69.39 to KES 71.28, kale rose from KES 98.51 to KES 102.45, fortified maize flour (2kg) increased from KES 162.56 to KES 173.51, and cabbages rose from KES 65.39 to KES 71.47 per kilogram. In contrast, sugar prices declined from KES 179.60 to KES 174.17, while cooking oil recorded a marginal decrease. Electricity costs increased across consumption bands, while fuel prices eased slightly, with petrol and diesel prices declining during the month.
- Looking ahead, inflation is expected to remain anchored within the CBK target range, supported by favorable base effects and easing fuel prices. However, upside risks persist, driven by elevated food price volatility, higher electricity costs, and the potential lagged impact of accommodative monetary policy, which could gradually influence demand-side pressures in the medium term.

Liquidity

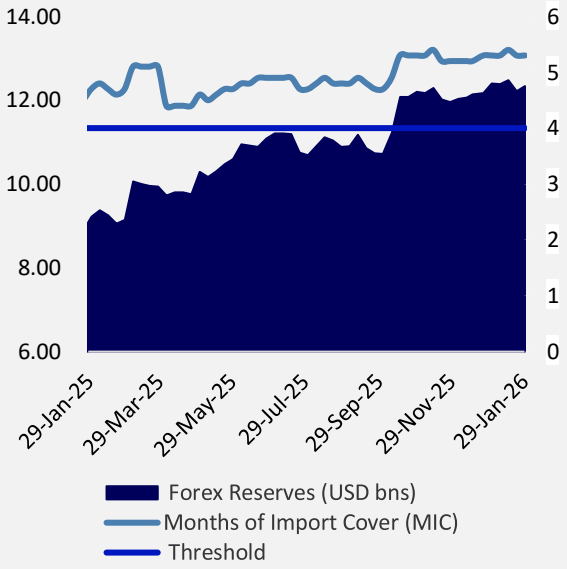

- The Kenya Shilling Overnight Interbank Average (KESONIA) closed the week at 8.99%. Going forward, we expect KESONIA to move largely in line with the CBR rate.

AIB-AXYS Weekly Global Markets Note

2nd February 2026

• Global Markets Commentary

- In the US, the market started the week on a strong footing, paring losses booked in the previous week after President Trump threatened tariffs on trade partners who opposed his plans for Greenland. However, gains were later eroded after President Trump announced that Kevin Warsh will assume the role of Fed Chair from Jerome Powell, who is widely viewed as hawkish. The market had expected President Trump to appoint a more dovish Chair to align with his call for faster and deeper rate cuts. Following Kevin Warsh's appointment, markets trimmed bets on rate cuts, having previously priced in at least two cuts heading into 2026.
- Commodities entered 2026 on a bullish note, particularly gold and silver, which posted strong gains in January as demand surged from emerging markets. Central banks continue to ramp up reserves with gold, marking a gradual shift away from the US dollar, which has been weakening. However, the metals retreated on Friday following the announcement of Kevin Warsh as the next Fed Chair. Over the longer term, geopolitics and US dollar dynamics remain supportive of gold, and the recent pullback presents opportunities for investors to increase exposure.
- As expected, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) kept rates unchanged, leaving the benchmark range at 3.50% - 3.75%. The Chair noted an improving economic outlook and stabilizing employment conditions. In addition, he emphasized that the committee will continue to take a data-driven approach in guiding policy decisions. The market had been expecting two rate cuts this year, with the first anticipated in June; however, the appointment of Kevin Warsh has dampened expectations for aggressive easing.

- The market closed on a mixed note. In the US, the announcement of Kevin Warsh as the next Fed Chair trimmed bets for rate cuts, with the reaction spilling over into the equities market, where major indices closed lower on Friday. The S&P 500 lost 0.4%; however, earlier gains in the week were sufficient to secure weekly gains. The Dow slid 0.4% on Friday and ended the week with a 0.4% loss. Corporate earnings continue to come in, with tech and AI-related names expected to steal the show once again, buoyed by stronger earnings growth compared to other sectors.
- Across Europe, the DAX closed the week down 1.5%, despite gaining 0.9% on the last trading day of the month, following three consecutive days of losses. Notably, Adidas rose 4.0% on Friday after reports of a share buyback, supported by strong FY25 results. In the UK, the FTSE 100 gained 0.8% on a weekly basis, buoyed by gains in banking sector stocks. Across Asia, the Hang Seng rose 2.4%, while Japan's Nikkei slid 1.0%.

Source: Investing.com, Bloomberg, AIB AXYS Research

- Yields on the US 10-year bond rose by 0.8 bps to 4.24% and touched 4.25% on Friday after President Trump announced Kevin Warsh as the next Fed Chair. Warsh, a former Federal Reserve Governor, is largely regarded as a hawk. Key to note, the US Producer Price Index came in at 0.5%, exceeding expectations of 0.2%, suggesting that consumer inflation could tick upwards in the near term. This week, investors will be paying close attention to labour market data, which the Fed is heavily focused on in guiding its policy path.
- Across Europe, the UK 10-year gilt yield rose by 0.1 bps to settle at 4.53% on Friday. Recent reports indicate that inflation remains sticky, limiting the scope for near term rate easing. Germany's 10-year Bund yield declined by 6.0 bps to 2.85%. Notably, ECB member Kocher noted that the central bank may contemplate easing rates if inflation dynamics are affected by the euro's strength. In Japan, the 10 year government bond yield fell by 1.4 bps to 2.25%, pointing to improved investor sentiment after concerns around the country's fiscal outlook had weighed on the market.
