AIB-AXYS July 2025 Stock Recommendations

June 2025 Highlights

- Umeme Interim Dividend – Umeme declared an interim dividend of UGX 222.0 (KES 7.95) per ordinary share, with a book closure date of 14th July 2025. The dividend, which came as a surprise, was likely funded from the USD 118.0 Mn received from the Government of Uganda as compensation for unrecovered investments made during the 20-year concession period. Following the announcement, Umeme's stock rallied, driven by strong investor interest in the unexpectedly high dividend payout. Umeme is also pursuing an additional USD 292.0 Mn from the government, representing unrecovered investments that were not recouped through electricity tariffs during the concession. The dispute has now moved to international arbitration in London, a process that could take up to 18 months to conclude. If the outcome is in Umeme's favor, shareholders may benefit from a special dividend. However, this is not guaranteed and will depend on the company's ability to clear all outstanding liabilities, including taxes, legal costs, and other financial obligations.
- Kapchorua Tea and Williamson Tea Earnings – Kapchorua Tea and Williamson Tea released their 2025 financial results, with both companies reporting a decline in net earnings, a development that was not unexpected, as both had earlier issued profit warnings. Kapchorua Tea posted net earnings of KES 181.18 Mn, a significant drop from KES 399.36 Mn reported in 2024. Williamson Tea, on the other hand, fell into loss territory, recording a net loss of KES 166.44 Mn, compared to a profit of KES 526.95 million in 2024. Despite the decline in profitability, both companies declared dividends: Kapchorua Tea issued a dividend of KES 25.00 per share, while Williamson Tea declared KES 10.00 per share. Notably, both firms are also proposing 1:1 bonus share issues, capitalized from their reserve revenues.
- Suspension of TransCentury and East African Cables – TransCentury and East African Cables were suspended from trading following their placement under receivership and administration, respectively, by Equity Bank Kenya over an outstanding debt of KES 4.74 Bn. Due to the ongoing insolvency issue, both securities were suspended from trading indefinitely, effective June 23rd, 2025. On the day of suspension, TransCentury had recorded the highest year-to-date (YTD) capital gains in the market, with a return of 187.2%, while East African Cables had posted a strong YTD performance of 58.3%. In FY'24, TransCentury had made a notable turnaround, returning to profitability after more than a decade by reporting a profit of KES 580.0 Mn. These developments cast uncertainty over shareholder investments, given that receivership grants the receiver the authority to dispose of company assets to recover outstanding liabilities, while administration provides a window for restructuring the company in an effort to preserve its value and possibly avoid liquidation.
- MPC Rate Cut in June – The Monetary Policy Committee implemented a sixth consecutive rate cut, bringing the Central Bank Rate (CBR) down to 9.75%, from 10.00%, in line with our expectations. The continued easing of lending rates has contributed to a softening yield curve, with yields on the 364-day Treasury bill falling into single-digit territory. The MPC's decision was driven by moderating inflation and the need to stimulate private sector lending. As lending rates continue to decline, we expect investors to reallocate part of their portfolios toward the equities market in search of higher returns.

5.	E.A Portland Cement	Net earnings improved to a profit of KES 35.1Mn from a loss of KES 720.7Mn. This return to profitability was anchored on improving sales volume driven by strategic pricing. 15.	Williamson Tea	Net earnings declined to a loss of KES 166.44Mn from a profit of KES 529.95Mn. The business recorded a KES 392.22Mn loss from operations before tax which we believe was underpinned by oversupply in the global tea market, which pressured prices and demand.

June 2025 Equities Market Highlights

- On a monthly perspective, market indices registered bullish sentiments with the Nairobi All Share Index rising by 14.3% m/m, NSE-20 rising 11.8% m/m, and NSE-10 rising 12.5% m/m.

- Equities market turnover expanded by 33.8% m/m to KES 11.97Bn in June 2025 from KES 8.94Bn in May 2025. On a yearly perspective, turnover expanded by 138.6% from KES 5.02Bn. Market capitalization expanded by 14.5% m/m to KES 2.42Tn, signaling an improvement in investor wealth. We believe the bullish market sentiment observed during the month was largely driven by a combination of easing global tensions and declining local interest rates, which enhanced the attractiveness of equities. The completion of various trade agreements by the US helped reduce trade uncertainties, while a de-escalation of the Middle East conflict toward the end of the month further strengthened foreign investor confidence in emerging and frontier market equities. Additionally, as local interest rates declined, domestic investors continued to rotate into equities in search of higher returns. Looking ahead, we expect this trend to persist in the near term, although a potential slowdown could emerge due to the rising political tensions currently unfolding in the country.

- Foreigners' participation expanded to 44.5% of the total market activity. Foreign sentiment was bullish, resulting in net inflows of KES 820.3Mn.

Global Markets Key Highlights

- US-China Trade Deal – During the month, the US and China initiated trade talks that ultimately resulted in the creation of a new trade framework between the two countries. This led to a reduction in reciprocal tariffs, with China lowering tariffs on US products from 125% to 10.0%, while the US reduced tariffs on Chinese goods from 145.0% to 55.0%. The tariff cuts eased some of the cost pressures faced by American importers. However, there are concerns that tariffs remain relatively high and could still drive price increases in the US, with Walmart, for example, indicating that its margins are too thin to fully absorb the impact. As a result, major importers may face revenue pressures in the coming months, which could weigh on their stock prices.
- Geopolitical Tensions in the Middle East – During the month, tensions between Israel and Iran escalated, with both countries launching military strikes against each other. The situation was further aggravated by US involvement in the conflict, raising fears of a potential full-scale regional war. These tensions contributed to a slowdown in overall market performance, though energy markets surged as investors priced in the risk of a possible closure of the Strait of Hormuz, which could significantly disrupt global oil supplies. The resulting spike in oil prices also fueled concerns about a resurgence of inflation, which could negatively affect equity valuations as central banks may be less inclined to maintain higher interest rates for an extended period. Markets have now ,however, shrugged off earlier jitters following the recent ceasefire agreement signed between the two countries.
- Divergence in Monetary Policy – The European Central Bank (ECB) cut interest rates by 25 basis points during the month, bringing them down to 2.0% in an effort to stimulate economic growth, which has remained subdued in the region. This move aligned with the trend in the UK, where the Bank of England lowered rates to 4.35% in May. However, the US Federal Reserve diverged from this path, leaving interest rates unchanged as it maintained a cautious stance due to existing tariffs that could fuel inflationary pressures. Looking ahead, we believe this divergence is likely to persist, as the US labor market remains stable despite elevated rates, prompting the Fed to continue its wait-and-see approach to assess whether inflationary pressures re-emerge under President Trump's policy direction.

Indices Commentary

In June, global markets — particularly the US — continued to show signs of recovery from the lows experienced in April after President Trump announced reciprocal tariffs on most US trading partners. Since then, markets have rebounded to pre-tariff highs, with all major US indices posting month-on-month growth of 4.0% or more. In Europe, however, market optimism was more subdued, with both the FTSE 100 and the German DAX recording slight declines. We believe this was driven by rising investor uncertainty as Europe and the US have yet to formalize a trade deal, with the 90-day pause deadline rapidly approaching. In Japan, equity markets continued to benefit from the tailwinds of corporate reforms, while Chinese markets saw month-on-month gains following the recent trade deal with the US, which lowered outstanding tariffs between the two nations. Looking ahead, we expect global markets to maintain upward momentum as macroeconomic uncertainties ease. However, the upcoming expiry of the 90-day tariff pause could weigh on markets, particularly in countries that do not secure a trade agreement with the US before the deadline.
